

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE DISTRICT OF NEBRASKA

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Plaintiff,

v.

MAKAYLA MORRISSEY,

Defendant.

8:18CR275

ORDER

This matter is before the Court on defendant Makayla Morrissey's ("Morrissey") Motion for Compassionate Release (Filing No. 77) pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A). Morrissey seeks release from concerns from the novel coronavirus ("COVID-19") that are heightened by the fact that she is five months pregnant and has other health issues putting her at risk of complications. Morrissey, currently imprisoned in a Bureau of Prisons ("BOP") facility in Illinois, is scheduled to be released in December 2020.

Under § 3582(c)(1)(A), Morrissey can request the Court reduce her term of imprisonment based on "extraordinary and compelling reasons." Id. § 3582(c)(1)(A)(i). Section 3582(c)(1)(A) only allows Morrissey to make that request, however, after she "has fully exhausted all administrative rights to appeal a failure of the [BOP] to bring a motion on [her] behalf or the lapse of 30 days from the receipt of such a request by the warden of [her] facility, whichever is earlier." Id.; see also United States v. Raia, 954 F.3d 594, 595 (3d Cir. 2020) (denying a compassionate-release motion for failing to meet either of the statutory requirements).

Here, Morrissey does not contend she has attempted to satisfy either of the statutory requirements under § 3582(c)(1)(A). She instead requests the Court excuse those requirements in this case based on the immediate and serious danger posed by COVID-19.

While the Court is sympathetic to Morrissey's concerns, the Court does not see any basis to excuse § 3582(c)(1)(A)'s requirements. Morrissey has made no attempt to satisfy those requirements, which results in "a glaring roadblock foreclosing compassionate release at this point." Raia, 954 F.3d at 597 (highlighting the importance of § 3582(c)(1)(A)'s requirements given the BOP's shared interest in a safe and healthy prison requirement). Accordingly, Morrissey's Motion for Compassionate Release (Filing No. 77) is denied without prejudice to refiling after either statutory requirement is met.

IT IS ORDERED.
